

Structuralism as one – structuralism as many. Studies in Structuralisms, edited by Lorenzo Cigana and Frans Gregersen. Copenhagen, Gads Forlag (Scientia Danica – Series H – Humanistica 8, vol. 21), 2023, 560 p. ISBN 9788773044476, 250,00 kr.

<https://gad.dk/structuralism-as-one-structuralism-as-many>

Table of Contents

Section one: Structuralism from above

1. Kirsten Hastrup: Claude Lévi-Strauss. Revisiting structuralism in anthropology
2. Finn Collin: A philosophical structuralism
3. Patrick Flack: Many meetings. An overview of historical encounters between structuralism and phenomenology
4. Frederik Stjernfelt: The riddle of dependences. How to connect entities, across pragmatism, phenomenology, and structuralism
5. Frederick J. Newmeyer: American structuralism and European structuralism: How they saw each other
6. John E. Joseph: What structuralism is not

Section two: Structuralism and other trends in linguistics

7. Klaas Willems and Thomas Belligh: The legacy of structuralism. Structuralist notions in contemporary linguistics
8. Peter Harder: Functionalism from Martinet to Dik, Croft and Danish Functional Linguistics
9. Hans Basbøll: Phonology and phonetics, a recurrent theme in European structuralisms: the case of Otto Jespersen and André Martinet

Section three: Glossematics as (one kind of) structuralism: Structuralism from within

10. Henrik Jørgensen: Louis Hjelmslev and the Danish linguistic traditions
11. Giorgio Graffi: Hjelmslev and structural linguistics in Italy
12. Sémir Badir: Hjelmslev and his semiotic legacy
13. Lorenzo Cigana: Beyond linguistic languages. Glossematics and connotation
14. Viggo Bank Jensen and Frans Gregersen: Worlds apart? Roman Jakobson and Louis Hjelmslev: a tale of a competitive friendship